We need to figure out a better way of getting the materiel into PACK2 from DK02. Simple mistake here which looks like the employee was trying to do the right thing but did not know the process. I'll talk to PACK Sups to see where we can get a spot for drop-offs. Surmise the employee avoided the tow cart option for expediency.

Fran
I know Paul is off the rest of the week so I'll bring this to your attention. While conducting my audits tonight I found a box that wasn't scanned into the tri-wall. The tri-wall was opened on our shift so I started asking around if anyone remembers placing the box into the tri-wall. I asked the 3 employees who were working that area but they did not remember packing the materiel. I remembered seeing someone riding a stock selector around the chutes with a pallet of boxes so I did some research on the piece and found it was picked out of DK02 by (b) (6) [REDACTED]. I tracked (b) (6) [REDACTED] down and asked him if he had dropped some boxes off at our chutes and he stated that he did. I asked him if he put them directly into the tri-wall or into the chute and he said that he put them in the tri-wall. I explained to him the process of scanning each PCN into a master CCN and how he can't put materiel into a tri-wall without scanning. He said he was really sorry and did not know and that he remembers delivering 2 other boxes that he put right into a tri-wall. He gave me the chute numbers and I was able to find one and the other was for Norfolk and it already was closed out for dedicated truck. I talked to DK supervisors and I asked them to put out at their next set-up meeting on how to deliver product. Going forward I believe we need to have a set drop off point for materiel coming from other areas to packing 2.

Both PCN's total dollar amount- $3131.46

Thanks for your time...let me know if you need anything else.

(b) (6)

My two cents:

Amazon is a beast to enter at that level, even with industry experience, but if you are willing to work extended hours (about 60hrs/ wk - may not vary from your current pace) it is definitely worth it and a great place to learn and make very good money. Amazon expects GMs to be very knowledgeable on the entirety of the business, with strong focus on the tactical level. The best GMs often start a year or two at an Ops or Sr Ops level prior to being a GM, so they can learn the business from the ground up.

It can be done, but it could be a struggle with what questions the Directors ask and are looking for with the reasonable expectations of the first couple years learning unique Amazon culture and ways.

(b) (6) (Regional Director for the buildings in Carlisle) has 10+ years at Amazon (also a fellow West Point grad - may be close to your class, not sure). He's a good guy, but we had very little time working together - he just took over that region a few months ago (still lives in Phoenix, moving to PA after his daughter graduates next month). He's a very tactically focused Director (like most at Amazon) - because that's what the VPs at Corporate ask and require - hence the steep learning curve. My name may or may not carry a lot of weight - when I told my former boss (he was fired in March) I was leaving to get work-life balance (about 6 months ago), he didn't take it well and didn't appreciate my candor on why I was leaving (presumably because he was struggling and I was his go-to guy). So the last few months, that I was hoping to be seamless, was less-than-desirable with that boss resorting to less-than-respectful tactics to try to save his job (which included trying to make me a scapegoat, which obviously failed). (b) (6) and I had a good relationship for the short period of time we worked together, as did the Regional HR Manager.

I will forward your resume to the Regional HR Manager for that region, as well as (b) (6), for a heads up (although the way Amazon structures the hiring process, they'll then forward on to the recruiting folks who will take it from there, assess potential/ good placement at Amazon/ etc). Most folks when joining Amazon start at a level or 2 below where they came from (I did as well when joining Amazon in 2010), but promotions happen quickly with the growing opportunities and natural turnover. I started as an Area Manager (first line Manager) and quickly was promoted to Sr Ops (2 promotions) in 3 years of service (1 year break due to deployment).

My recommendation for Amazon: Start at an Ops or Sr Ops level (enjoy a little down time after your military service), learn the business from the ground up, and quickly promote if it's a good cultural fit. You'll still make well over 6-figures at even an Ops level (typical is $105k off the street, plus $30-$45k sign on) - with stock vests moving forward that. Amazon will pay more over the long run than nearly all other companies once you pass the 2-year mark and Stock Vests start rolling in).

I learned a ton at Amazon and enjoyed much of the 6 years I spent there, and every day was a new challenge. But it also is a very high turnover company as they work longer and harder than most in the industry - several articles, including a NY Times article from last July I believe, are pretty accurate from a tough culture perspective.

Looking for some feedback and recommendations. The GM position at the FC in Carlisle is open and I applied for the position last evening. I am trying to keep all options open at this point. Fran or Shane... I know you may have mentioned that you know the next manager above the GM, if so would you be willing to forward him my resume?

Let me know your honest thoughts when you have time.

Subject: Standardization

Gentlemen,

I ask for guidance and direction from both the OPS Manager and the People Manager. I have been observing the methods that we are getting started with work and finished with work. There is substantial variations amongst the branches. I suggest that we have a standard across the entire EDC so that we might improve productivity while also increasing employee morale. I suggest the following as a baseline using KA shift as the model.

Start of Shift

0600-0604 Employee reports for work and dons required PPE (shoes) 0605-UTC Employee attends Setup meeting to receive assigned tasks

UTC+5 Employee at assigned work area and conducting LOGIN to DSS

End of Shift

1420-1424 Employee stops work, conduct LOGOUT from DSS, cleans assigned work area.

1425-1430 Employee removes required PPE, conducts personal hygiene, then safely exits the building

This is a starting point where we might begin. There are definite improvements to the process that can be had which would increase our productivity and increase employee morale.

I look forward to the discussion.

John,

This is a major deviation from the current process. I request that we get all involved here to resolve this. Two things can happen - 1) process continues as currently done or 2) we completely count every MRO twice. I surmise reduced productivity and increased supply costs for #2.

Enjoy the holiday. See you next week for further guidance.

Subject: RE: Warehousing Pack SOP 4145.11

Drew,

Verification and validation steps have always been required for CCP Pack operations. Susquehanna (and other sites utilizing CCP Pack processes) just chose not to follow those steps. This most definitely increased the product flow through the CCP Pack areas, but I am certain the SDR rates and open/unconfirmed shipments increased as well. Our current Warehousing Pack SOP for the RFKB (CONTINUOUS Pack) screen process states:

"Visually verify against the Pick ticket:

- NSN,
- Nomenclature
- Exception Data (if applicable)
- Quantity,

- Unit of Issue,
- Visual appearance of the materiel condition •Shelf Life (if applicable) •Expiration Data (if applicable) •Unique Item Identification (UII) (if applicable) (Ensure the Consolidated designator matches.)"

This aligns with the guidance in our Warehousing training manual:

" "Verify and validate" is mentioned throughout the manual for Audit Readiness purposes.

"Verify and validate" means to verify the location, NSN, nomenclature, exception data, quantity, unit of issue, and visual appearance of the materiel condition code against the stow, pick, pack, and rewarehousing documentation."

I have included our J3 Audit Readiness and J3 OD teams for their awareness.

Crim is on the email, she will have Jamie Spak (my replacement) work on it. The way we wrote the control was that CCP items would not need to be opened, but MRO's picked at DDSP and are getting their initial pack would need to be opened to give us a second check. But Jamie would have to give you the official word so I don't step on the J4's toes.

Team,
I would like to get some clarification on the Warehousing Pack SOP 4145.11 effective date 9/1/2015.

Jared, we have previously discussed this issue regarding Control 1 the Pack Verified. I am concern about our Packing 2 operation (Consolidated Pack) Note 1 doesn't include our current situation. Packing 2 receives material from the pick environment and CCP that's already packed with an MRO or CCP receipt affixed to the package. That packed then get scanned into a tri-wall. At no point do we open that packed to verify : NSN, Nomenclature, Exception Data, Quantity etc...

Reference page 13-14 RFKB Continuous Pack.

PS Jared, I am aware that you have move to the J3, however I thought you could help facilitate this conversation.

Need to understand the differences between M2,M4,M6, & M7. Believe that these are accounting codes for the different missions, but I do not want to assume them.

Why are there still WL on the document? Thought the idea was to phase them out.

Planned SUP to EMP ratio is what? 1:10? 1:15?

Why the differences in Grades for the WS positions?

Can the PACK positions be DPW or are there specific things required in the PD for those positions?

Fitness time for 2nd shift will be troublesome because the 19:50 time...fitness center closes at 20:00 daily.

Fran,

I wanted to share a quick story that tells the mindset of our EDC supervisors.

BLUF, we have been having an issue with totes coming out of R&B's getting jammed up at the end of the night, mainly because the pickers wait until the end of the night to dump their materiel and the tote line then gets overwhelmed.

Tonight I'm up there watching the FOP unjam everything and I see one of the storage supervisors walking out with the rest of the storage employees, knowing that (b) (6) is on leave, I call him over and ask him what we can do to stop this from happening.

His reply, "it's happening because they wait until the end of the night to bring their materiel forward".

I ask, "don't you manage that"?

Sup, "yea, but they are way back there (pointing into the rack area), what can I do".

After a deep breathe, I responded by explaining that we have to do better, by holding this materiel until after 2200 is counterproductive as the majority of our PACOUT workforce is also leaving at 2230 and we don't have the resources to keep up with this late surge.

Not sure if this all fell on deaf ears, I guess time will tell.

Have a good day!

Subject: Pallet Strap return area

Shane, George,

Believe that we have an easy one to fix here. I have observed several times where employees are riding the spurs picking up pallet straps to return either to Rack and Bins or to MSN. Would like to get a process here in PACOUT to simply put the straps in red totes and ship them back via tow carts to spurs in Racks and Bins or MSN. Think I need to know where they should be returned and then you would need to communicate to your employees to expect carts with straps on them. Should preclude having employees riding round all the spurs.

Is this doable on your end? If so, what spurs would you like the carts to be moved.

Kevin Mitchell is leading this JDI (Just Do It) from the PACOUT area. Send him your responses.

This is a bad use of government resources. WS get paid to supervise and not do Supply Tech Functions.

I am stopping it within PACOUT. No SUPs doing OT unless they are performing supervisory functions.

Subject: Labor Hours vs Past Workload

Gentlemen,

I looked at the current labor hours in PACOUT versus the MROs released over the previous 8 Weeks (APR 3 - MAY 28). The Goal line below shows the workload as a percentage of the Day of the week. (Sunday MROs are included in Monday work). This shows that PACOUT is a bit misaligned in regards to labor versus the workload with Monday and Friday being the worse. That seems to be predictable as we provide many Monday and Fridays as RDOs. The data shows that we should be doing more Friday RDOs vice Monday RDOs.

I will continue to look at the data and see if this trend continues. I plan to use this data as we head into the rack and stack with our employees and our Local.

Just sharing the data with you.

There really is not many people on the shift as they normally have to conduct work arounds because the building is shut down. I can just keep them off the crane as there are other areas they can work.

We can talk more.

Subject: Continual Improper crane parking/positioning in Highrise
Importance: High

Mr. Mantz,

For the last month alone, Safety and ASR has been inundated with seven (7) Near Misses associated with improper parking/positioning within the EDC Highrise. This is just an accident waiting to happen based on the potential fall hazard to lower levels to tripping and reaching for lanyards, etc.

A Safety Alert notification has been posted in the Highrise breakrooms and bulletin boards to express the importance of proper crane parking/position along with set-up meeting briefs. Based on ESAMS trending data, it appears the majority are occurring before/around the 0600 hrs. shift change/turn-over.

We would like to solicit your assistance in curtailing these situations.

Occurrences:

05/17/2016 at 0745 hrs: Crane was positioned about eight (8) inches above the mezzanine level

05/19/2016 at 0630 hrs: Crane was positioned about six (6) inches above the mezzanine level causing a potential trip hazard

05/19/2016 at 0630 hrs: Crane was positioned about thirty (30) inches behind the swingable crane access gate

05/20/2016 at 0615 hrs: Crane was positioned about sixteen and a quarter (16 ¼) inches behind the swingable crane access gate

06/01/2016 at 0616 hrs: Crane was positioned about six (6) inches below the swingable crane access gate

06/07/2016 at 0600 hrs: Crane was positioned about seventeen inches (17) inches to the rear of the mezzanine access gate

06/14/2016 at 0630 hrs: Crane was not pulled completely up to the mezzanine leaving a 20 inch gap causing a possible fall hazard

Thanks you sir for your assistance in this ongoing matter.

Vr,
Ken

Hi Drew,

One of the lessons learned at a recent grievance meeting with COL New, is that we need to spread the word to the supervisors to make sure that supervisors know that when they orally counsel someone, they should not only document it in writing but also make sure that both the supervisor and the employee sign the document and make sure a copy is given to the employee.

If you could help communicate this message to your supervisors, that would be great.

Thanks,

Kim

Orange Tote Process

STEPS:

1. Orange totes and S/N's are ordered in blocks of 1000/1500/2500.
2. Totes are serialized and then entered into ECS via a script established by Systems (building 54) at the request of ECS Ops.
3. Any totes lost to damage are removed from ECS via Floor Operations Personnel and reported to ECS Ops. (Bet) and tracked via a spreadsheet showing the damaged totes only.

Report/Conclusions

No reporting capabilities reside in the ECS System for tote accountability. Over the past 25 years we have been less than effective in maintaining this data base.

Current records show to date we have lost 764 totes to damage. Average would be 35 per week or 1680 totes per year. At a cost of $19.52 our estimated loss this year would be $ 32,800.00.

We need to make a concrete effort to get all totes back to the EDC and this means looking within the EDC and retrieving all totes being used for storage and trash receptacles in all areas.

Ensure our folks stop sending material out in Orange Totes.

Recommendations:

Plan/schedule/complete an inventory of all totes in operation. A feasibility study should be considered as the cost of this could outweigh the loss or at least come close to it.

Reorder a block of new numbers (different color) and reserialize the totes.

Develop/maintain a more user friendly data base with reporting/tracking capabilities. Maybe an Access file on SharePoint.

Sir,

Here is the color coding system that we used at Letterkenny.

We probably should adjust it for the EDC.

Give me a call or let's set-up a quick meeting this week.

Joe,

Any specific color coding we should follow in our taping/painting outline procedures with 6S?

Like green=safety, yellow=temporary placement....?

All,
This is very short fused....

Last week I mentioned that LMS was going through a reset and that many people would get notifications that curriculum will be removed from their accounts. I was given this spreadsheet today to populate and report back with. In it you will see tabs for Storage and Handling of HAZMAT, HAZMAT Preparer Cert, DoD WPM, Pack 1A, Pack 1B, and D2 (DEMIL PAB).

In each of these tabs I need the divisions to identify and plug in names of people who should have the training as a mandatory requirement based on what they do.

1. Assign someone in your division to collect and document the names onto this spreadsheet.
2. Send the spreadsheet to Janet Swisher for consolidation
3. My team has been given permission to upload the results into LMS

Please get this done, major league important we get this accomplished. I have to report results to J9/OM NLT Wednesday June 29th.

Thank you
Mike

The things I have seen so far are leaking engines or transmissions. We cannot ship them as they are supposed to be empty of liquids anyway. My maintenance experience would say that the container was not cleaned before the piece was placed back into it. It then collects in the bottom and when we move it, the liquid comes out....

Believe that this was a shotgun blast from Elise to get someone to help. This should be directed to DMD for resolution.

In Storage, I haven't come across this problem yet - doesn't mean it doesn't exist - I'll ask around - but hazmat shouldn't be getting by Mission Receiving.

Is this non-hazmat that was mis-directed to the Haz building?

The ones that I have seen so far in PACOUT are items leaking that cannot be shipped so the Spill Response Team is called who then handle the materiel. I have not seen one returned from them yet. I need to check on the process here to show where the materiel is virtually in the system.

Fran, George, Shane,

I'm assisting Chief Hoffman in directing leaking stock that's been cleaned back to its rightful owner(s). These are pieces that EDC personnel called the hazmat team about because they were spilled and needed a cleanup, especially barrels that they take that had leaked into a containment system.

I didn't know where the majority of these are, but I wanted to provide him with points of contact if his personnel cannot find those that had called in the hazardous spill. I hope that you can assist him next time that this occurs when he needs to return that materiel. Thank you.

Notes from today's REW Meeting:

- Starting next Weds (tentative), Same Jodon or Rabbit will deliver some REW destined for Bldg 85 (making the bins avail at that time). Total orders will only be around 250/ wk.

- Starting next Tues, we'll start seeing PDOs destined for Mech (500/ day) to clear up some space.

- I'll be meeting with Ron Hunziker next Tues to talk about DB40 Pick/ Pack process and provide my thoughts on the project (The concrete work on the floor to level out the rows there estimated completed by End of August)

- I'll be meeting with Scott Harp next Weds to review Temp Location usage in Active Items

Fran - Mech requested that we keep the PDOs flowing and not allow them to sit around and accumulate prior to shipping - LTL vs waiting for full truck.

If you have any thoughts on the DB40/ Active Item discussion/ want to attend please let me know.

You have been here forever and a day....what date should the EOM stock repositioning run? I am thinking 28 July, but I could be wrong. Would like to see if we could anticipate this action this month, especially with the SZPs that drop. Need to understand when it will happen so that we can keep everyone informed as this has a tendency to blow out Medium/Heavy. Your sage advice is greatly appreciated.

You guys don't happen to have these sitting around anywhere do you?

We did our inventory last week, and these were the ones that weren't present.

I have emailed the PM team to see if they're still there being worked on.

Thanks.

I've drafted up the transfer docs for the FOS equipment. Whenever you have time please place your digital signature in the receiver blocks of the attachments docs and return them to me.

Would you happen to know if either Shawn or Shane were successful in locating the 4 forklift below or not?

Hi Shawn / Shane,

Much appreciated on working with Josh and myself to get the physical asset inventory completed yesterday.

As far as the reconciliation process is going there are 4 assets that were not checked off on my list. Please let me know the whereabouts of the following EJONs:

2B3682 - FORKLIFT, LANDOLL, BENDI

2A4924 - FORKLIFT, LANDOLL

2A4929 - FORKLIFT, LANDOLL

2A4942 - FORKLIFT, LANDOLL

*At the least, I'd just like to know if the serial numbers and barcode label information matches up for each piece of equipment.

Lastly, we wrote down the information on a few extra assets Found on Site.

The attachment lists the items so I'm generating DLA Form 1311s transferring them to Mr. Finn's hand receipt.

Thanks!

Lori
Thanks for taking my call.
The other item I wanted to run past you is ref the subject line.

The issue, recently highlighted to me, is that we are experiencing some log on issues that we believe revolve around opening other platforms. Specifically, I've been informed that our EDC PacOut operations in AWOS (Light Pack and Packing II) are having serious delays in just a straight log on to the system --- an avg. of 25 minutes just to log on with a range for delay being reported as 15-45 minutes.

I know ya-II sent a Team from J6 to EDC Receiving to check out the problem not long ago, is there a possibility you could help us out with this one as well -- please. Your assistance would be greatly appreciated.

If you desire us to drop a ticket-- please provide the means to do so as a Reply-To-All.

Many Thanks!

Subject: RE: TASK: SZP

Shane,

I am on the catching end of this process. I have not been able to identify a process to enable PACOUT to order trucks early. I have to wait until the materiel is in the lane so that I can shoot a "ghost" truck. The VLO (vehicle load order) is then sent to MENLO who competes the trailer to carriers. Carriers then get the order and send a trailer for us to load. Process can take up to 24 hours to get a trailer in place for loading.

This process has caught us flat footed on multiple occasions and I have yet to identify how to get it better. The process is OK as long as the materiel picked is not concentrated in a particular lane. So what got me for the 4th Holiday was the lack of other picks available which forced the guys to pick REW and SZP materiel. This blew out those two lanes which then just gummed up the process until we could get the 6+ ghost trucks shot and ordered.

Metrics on this end are almost non-existent so it has been trying to get the data to understand the issue.

We can work together to make this all better.....

Subject: RE: TASK: SZP

Paul,

Trying to piece together my approach first time going through it, my math (might be off) says we can plan on getting done within the next two days.

Brad spoke with Paul Smith this morning, so they're expecting these. Fran - do you see any concerns with us overwhelming your capacity to receive all of this work in this timeframe?

We plan on picking SZPs after we complete WIP and Cycle 1.

The Hourly WIP file hasn't updated since this morning, so I can't tell details on the new SZP drop in C3, but based on what currently is in WIP, what mission work we currently have, and the Quantity of new SZP work from DSS, here's my best guess:

Current Failed SZP WIP - 596

New SZP work in Cycle 3 - DB - 394; DR - 255 (incrementals in other areas will be completed after C1 today)

Total DB SZP work -

Total SZP work ~ 1,250

1st Shift Excess Labor hours beyond Mission work in DB- 30.9 (labor remaining after mission work is complete)

Expected Rate for SZPs in DB (weighted average, looking at High Count above 500 units vs. not): 13.4 (Assuming a rate of 10 for H/C, 15 for non-H/C).

Total 1st Shift Capacity for DB SZPs: 372 orders, with the Majority of working hitting Pack out today after 12pm, but some trickling in this morning.

Total 1st Shift Capacity for DR SZPs: 90 orders

Total 2nd Shift Capacity for DB SZPs: ~ 600 based on projected new orders and projected 2nd shift capacity
Projected DB SZP work remaining after 1st shift today - 618

Projected DB SZP work remaining after 2nd shift tonight - ~20 orders

Based on those theoretical numbers, I feel we can get clean by tomorrow afternoon, dependent on the ugliness of packaging/ quantities

With 32% of all of these being High Count (packaging dependent of course), this could slow us down more than my assumed rates of 10 and 15, respectively.

To be safe, we should be able to clear this tomorrow by end of 2nd shift, but definitely by end of 1st shift Thursday if new order patterns stay this light.

To facilitate, I will work with the team at getting additional High Count table capacity to not grow a backlog there.

Please provide feedback on anything you think we can do better.

Thanks,
Shane

Sounds like we need to take matters into our own hands, unfortunately.

I don't like the idea of allowing GS-11's to just figure it out and do their job - and view my job as deconflicting and bring the entire team on the same page- not leaving up to individual shift whims on how to handle a situation.

Any particular day of the week/ time of day work best to put our collective heads together?

How about this - introduce your GS-11's to one another and hold them responsible to gather the facts, determine the problem, figure out what help they need (non-controllables), solve the controllables, train/communicate with all stakeholders, follow up, monitor, track, report results, and lastly provide credit/recognition where it is due.

Subject: Storage Planning File

Gents,

Sending you a file I've been working on to help Storage understand how to plan at a shift level, as well as so I can better understand and proactively project work and labor at my level and the EDC-Level.

My main reason for doing this was quite simply - my Supervisors and Managers don't know how to really make a feasible plan, and then how to resource and staff to nail that plan.

Fran - you'll see where I'm going with the 3-Week Plan file (Think 21 Day Plan).

Ultimately, I feel like one of the big reasons Storage is underperforming is because of work I don't currently have good visibility on (Re-directed trucks to DK, REW trends, PDO trends, Stows, etc), as well as being over-staffed.

Ideally, I'd like to be able to proactively coordinate sharing of labor out of Storage to you guys if I don't need it, and vice versa, but I think that my branch probably has the most information and metrics with which to plan and it may be hard to know for you guys since info from Trans isn't great for you George.

I'm going to see how accurate my projection for backload orders is for next Tuesday, and keep improving the file to get there. I've plugged in the number of OT hours we'll have here, and used historical order trends to predict what will fall in.

Fran - I think this, coupled with your Outbound Trans Schedule, might help predict your work load better (the details exists for knowing destination in the data I was working with Kevin Leader on, I just didn't need it or use it).

Ultimately, I'm using this info to help my staffing model and recommending some changes to how we drop work to better align with efficient processing and meeting our customer facing metrics.

Take some time to digest - it's a lot - and let me know if you think there might be some applications I can help work if you are interesting in doing something similar in your areas.

Thanks,

Shane L. Mantz

All,
This is very short fused....

Last week I mentioned that LMS was going through a reset and that many people would get notifications that curriculum will be removed from their accounts. I was given this spreadsheet today to populate and report back with. In it you will see tabs for Storage and Handling of HAZMAT, HAZMAT Preparer Cert, DoD WPM, Pack 1A, Pack 1B, and D2 (DEMIL PAB).

In each of these tabs I need the divisions to identify and plug in names of people who should have the training as a mandatory requirement based on what they do.

1. Assign someone in your division to collect and document the names onto this spreadsheet.
2. Send the spreadsheet to Janet Swisher for consolidation
3. My team has been given permission to upload the results into LMS

Please get this done, major league important we get this accomplished. I have to report results to J9/OM NLT Wednesday June 29th.
Thank you
Mike

Sir,

This morning, we conducted the DLA Distribution Susquehanna (DDSP) Change of Command between COL Corey New and COL Brad Eungard. As you know, Corey has done a phenomenal job over the past three years commanding the largest distribution center in DoD. His focus on process improvement has been outstanding, but his focus on taking care of people has been particularly noteworthy. While we still have a way to go, the results of the culture survey for DDSP have seen marked improvement since the last report, showing as much as 50% improvement in many areas. Corey is a great leader who will be sorely missed by the enterprise as he retires within the next few months and we wish him and his family the best as they transition. COL Eungard is a great Officer with multiple combat deployments and most recently completed a fellowship at MIT's Center for Transportation and Logistics where he studied Supply Chain Management.

Next week, I will visit our Distribution Centers at Jacksonville, Warner Robins, Albany, Cherry Point and Richmond to gain an understanding of the unique challenges at each of their operations. While at each location, I will be meeting with key customers and logistics partners including the LOGCOM CG, the NAVSUP FLRCs, and I'll attend the Change of Command to WR-ALC.

Yes that and LEAD

I have an SF182 already in for this training. Dave Brown is the POC for the one here.

LABOR DAY

ATTENTION: EAGLE USERS; Timekeepers; Certifiers; Supervisors and Site Administrators

SUBJECT: Compressed Work Schedules (CWS) and Labor Day 2016 Holiday Reporting

This recording “example” applies to GS employees working a Monday – Friday “fixed” Compressed Work Schedule (CWS). EAGLE Work Schedule Types: Compressed (80) and Compressed (40/40). All other schedules shall follow the “observed” holiday.

Labor Day will be “observed” Monday, September 05, 2016. For employees who are on Compressed Work Schedule (CWS) with Monday, September 05, 2016 being their approved Compressed Day Off (CDO), the “in-lieu” of holiday (LH) will be recorded on Friday, September 02, 2016.

Should management find that employee(s) must report to work on their “in-lieu” of holiday; employee(s) are entitled to Holiday Graded (HG) time for their designated tour hours. With the proper coordination, management may elect to change an employees’ work schedule to accomplish the mission. Schedule changes that will affect the employee(s) in-lieu of holiday must be approved prior to the beginning of the pay period.

EAGLE is programmed in accordance with DoD policy on the application of holidays and assigned work schedules. Our best advice.... Follow the American Flag.

Your attention in properly recording is appreciated as this will reduce the number of manual corrections required on part of the DLA Payroll Services Team. Questions may be addressed to your servicing Payroll Support Site inbox.

Any chance we can get together and plan this holiday. I do not want to repeat the 4th of July where we had people in on OT that were not required. Need a coordinated plan within the EDC. I surmise there will be no trucks coming into Mission which would necessitate that they not run a schedule on Saturday. Doubt very much that there will be dedicated trucks so there will not be much work there either. Believe that storage is the driver of the plan.... Would like to get ahead of this one....

ATTN: EAGLE Site Administrators

We are now fielding questions on the EAGLE reporting of CDOs (FIXED 4/10 and 5/4/9) work schedules and the Labor Day Holiday - Monday 09/05. Instructions are not to be confused with those that are on a flexible type work schedule, where the observed Holiday does not move. Before addressing those issues that may come to your attention - you need to look at the schedule type of the employee. Many "practice" a compressed option on a flexible schedule - rules are different. It is also to be understood - the application of the in-lieu of holiday has NOTHING to do with when the pay period starts or ends. Attached are the standard instructions for all on a Monday - Friday work week; on the described work schedule type and have a FIXED CDO/RDO approved for Monday, September 05, 2016. Best resource should you have questions is to follow the American Flag in EAGLE - it is programmed to identify the holiday as it applies to the approved work schedule on record. Asking for your assistance with the distribution of the attached information within your designated areas of responsibility.
